ACRYLIC BATHS

The versatility of acrylic has given designers greater scope in developing unconventional and appealing baths in a wide range of shapes and styles. And as this modern material is so light, it allows for indulgently large sizes, and enables models to be fitted in applications that wouldn't be strong enough to support a cast iron bath when full of water.

Manufactured from premium quality acrylic and reinforced with a thick wood and glass fibre base, our baths are extremely rigid, strong and well insulated.

STEEL BATHS

Pressed steel is equally suited to conventional and contemporary styles and, like acrylic, the manufacturing processes involved, combined with the light weight of the material, enable a greater variety of shapes and design detail than traditionally possible.

Steel baths also offer a choice of edge shapes; rounded (R), standard squared (N) and thick squared (T), and some models offer aprons; integrated panels which give a co-ordinated and neat finish.

CAST IRON BATHS

The quality and stylishness of cast iron baths is unmistakable, and the glossy, white enamel, with its ever so slightly uneven finish, gives them their unique character.

A painstaking manufacturing process ensures each bath is crafted and finished to the highest standard. The result is a solid and durable bath, resistant to scratching and staining with exceptional heat retention, making cast iron a truly luxurious option.

A conventional free-standing cast iron bath is available either single or double ended. However, if you're looking for a more distinctive option, our collection includes a striking slipper bath.

We also offer a range suitable for setting under a surface, such as marble or wood, or panelling [see opposite].

HYDROTHERAPY & CHROMOTHERAPY BATHS

Bring the health-giving properties of water into your bathroom with a Multizone hydrotherapy bath. Relieve tension and pain with the massaging, healing properties of water.

THE HEALTH BENEFITS OF HYDROTHERAPY

Promotes Healing & Reduces Stress

The same overall feeling of relaxation and peace felt during a massage is created by a soak in a hydrotherapy bath. A calm mental state helps to promote healing and relief of stress-related pain.

Relieves Muscle Pain

The water massages the muscle tissue relieving pain, cramp and stiffness and aiding the speedy recovery of sprains and ligament damage.

Stimulates Flow of Blood & Lymph

The force of the water on the body increases the flow of blood and encourages lymph flow, increasing oxygen in the body and flushing out waste products. Helps to balance the fluid level in the tissues and defend the body against disease.

Rejuvenates the Skin

The jet of water against the skin stimulates the sweat glands, which helps to flush out unwanted oil leaving the skin with a youthful glow.

Acupressure and Reflexology

By directing the jet of water to specific pressure points believed to correspond to internal organs, healing of ailments in these areas of the body is expedited.

THE COLOURS OF CHROMOTHERAPY

Violet (the crown)
Promotes enlightenment, revelation & spiritual awakening whilst soothing the internal organs, relaxing muscles and calming the nervous system.

Indigo (the brow)
Acts as a calming sedative, promoting intuition.

Blue (the throat)
Encourages communication and knowledge. Thanks to its detoxifying effect, it is used to treat liver disorders and jaundice.

Green (the heart)
Produces a feeling of calm that is considered effective in ulcer treatment and because of its seemingly antiseptic properties, the alleviation of bacterial infections.

Yellow (the solar plexus)
Stimulates wisdom and clarity, and is thought to have decongestant and antibacterial action whilst invigorating both the digestive and lymphatic system.

Orange
The benefits of red and yellow together provides a feeling of serenity and happiness as well as motivating.

Red (the base of the spine)
Imparts energy, empowerment and motivation, and is believed to improve circulation and stimulate red blood cell production.

HYDROTHERAPY SYSTEM OPTIONS & FEATURES

The Multizone Hydrotherapy system offers the most comprehensive range of jets currently available. Each jet has adjustable flow control, from a gentle conditioning massage to a powerful toning jet. Jets are easily removable for cleaning or action style substitution. This is the most powerful performing micro jet on the market.
